

Motion-Picture War on Radicals Begun by U. S.

Dr. Tigert, Education Commissioner, Announces Nation-Wide Campaign by Films and Public Speakers

Americanism Is Keynote

New Screen Invented by Edison Permits Showing of Pictures in Daylight

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 13.—War on Communism, Bolshevism, Socialism and all forms of government that do not recognize the rights of property and the right of government to its just rewards was declared here today by Dr. John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, as part of the policy of the bureau of which he is the newly appointed head. A campaign for the furtherance of "visual education" through motion pictures also will be undertaken at once, Dr. Tigert said.

Dr. Tigert made his announcement as part of an address at a luncheon given in his honor by civic clubs and the Lexington Board of Commerce. He came here for a short visit to his home and to conclude the work of the Department of Psychology at the University of Kentucky, of which he was head until his appointment by President Harding as head of the Bureau of Education.

The first move in the fight on communistic ideas, Dr. Tigert stated, will be to send prominent speakers throughout the United States to deliver addresses on Americanism. The subject will be discussed in the efforts of the bureau in the schools and through every medium under its control. A series of ten lectures on Americanism, written by Dr. Tigert, will be given by the bureau in the schools and through every medium under its control.

Dr. Tigert showed to the attendants at the luncheon here today a "crucifixion" motion picture screen invented by Thomas A. Edison and a number of other men working together, by means of which motion pictures can be shown without darkening the room.

The screen, according to Dr. Tigert, had never been shown in public before, only President Harding, a number of United States Senators and government officials and some motion picture men had seen it in operation. By means of this screen, the commissioner said, he hopes to introduce visual education in the public schools throughout the country.

Ethel Barrymore a Model in Dress in Palace Play

Star Is a Splendid Argument for Business Career for Women

Ethel Barrymore, appearing at Keith's Palace in Sir J. M. Barrie's one-act play, "The Twelve Pound Look," is a splendid argument for the business career for women. Her success in marriage with a certain type of men, the stereotyped "successful" man. Taking cognizance of what may seem a superficial matter first, she is a model in dress which it would suit any business woman to imitate. Her clothes are smart but feminine, with that striking simplicity which is beyond the pocketbooks of some working women. In her dress which is a model of simplicity, she is matched with shoes and stockings and a simple hat, her dark blue polka-dotted tie and her scarf, and with her hair parted on one side and done in low, girlish fashion. Miss Barrymore, who was the modern woman who earns her living should look—and so seldom does.

Miss Barrymore was supported by Harry Plimmer as Sir Harry Sims; Miss Sharron as Mrs. Sims; and James Kearney as Tombs. The reception of her name, her initial appearance and certain calls indicated the appreciation felt by a vaudeville audience that one of the stars of the stage should come into its own, if only for a short time. Among the other popular numbers with yesterday's Palace audience was Jack Joyce, billed "The Boy with a Smile," who does some remarkable dancing with a ratchet. Joyce is an English actor, who lost one leg in the war. Yet he gives a creditable performance, dancing and singing, and one which is graceful and in good taste.

Jack Donahue, in nonsense, monologuing and burlesque fancy dancing, also took the popular fancy. William Demarest and Estelle Collette do some queer things to violin and cello, as well as some regular playing. Royal Gascoigne juggles knives and chairs. Ruth Royce is appearing as a comedienne of syncope; W. Horlick and the Sarapapa Sisters present descriptive dances. Mary Ann and Marie McFarland sing several opera pieces, and Harland Dixon and the London Palace Girls give an act of singing and dancing.

Prisco, "the creator of jazz," heads the bill at the Riverside this week, with Tempest and Sunshine sharing the honors. Florence Moore is one of the attractions at Keith's Eighty-first Street Theater. Nonette, the gypsy violinist, is the star at the Fordham.

At the Hamilton Max Termini "Shadowland" tops the bill, and Will Morrissey's Comies are chief features of the early bill at the Jefferson Theater, where the policy of straight vaudeville, with a complete change of program on Mondays and Thursdays, is newly inaugurated. At the Bushwick, in Brooklyn, Karyl Norman, the Creole Fashion Plate, is the topline.

Chicago Opera to Quit N. Y.

Schedule Change Made by the Trustees for Economy

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE TRIBUNE
CHICAGO, June 13.—New York probably will be omitted from the itinerary of the Chicago Opera Company hereafter as a measure of economy. This was outlined today by Harold F. McCormick at a luncheon of the Citizens Chicago Opera Committee at the Union League Club.

"It has been thought best for many reasons to include New York," said Mr. McCormick, "but under the trustees economies will be practiced which were not effected under practically personal ownership. When it is known that a deficit of from $125,000 to $175,000 must be faced, the Chicago Opera Company will devote itself to Western territory, a great economy in repertory can be effected. The thirty-nine operas of the Chicago season and twenty-five of the New York season can be reduced."

Miss Shaw Presents

Five Single Act Plays

Author Is Seen in Important Parts of Three Works She Wrote

Five one-act plays written by Miss Billie Shaw were presented last night at the Apollo Theater, with Miss Shaw playing important parts in three of them. The playlets were "Gutta Serena," "Pearls," "The Good Woman," "Squaring the Triangle" and "The Iconoclast." In "Gutta Serena" Miss Shaw played the lead as a foolish young wife about to leave her husband because he couldn't remember after five years of her telling him where his dress shirts were kept. The playlet is thin, but Miss Shaw looked very nice in a butterfly negligee, which was well suited to her blond prettiness. Olive Oliver and Lionel Glenister supported her.

"Pearls" is a crook play with touches of real melodrama. Averell Harris and Fay Courteney played the man and the girl. In "The Good Woman," Olive Oliver talks with her conscience, Fay Courteney, and Her Common Sense. Miss Shaw, in a manner reminiscent of "Everywoman," Not a few of the lines are aimed at reformers and anti-vice crusaders.

"Squaring the Triangle" is a comedy in which Fay Courteney, Lionel Glenister and Averell Harris take the parts. Miss Shaw appeared in the Divertissement, assisted by Warner Gault, tenor, and Vincent Lopez and his Kings of Harmony.

Nation Will Pay Homage to Flag To-day

Colonel Galbraith, Shortly Before His Death, Asked Public to Pledge Again Its Love for Old Glory

Exercises Arranged Here

Outing Will Be Held for Wounded Ex-Service Men in All Local Hospitals

A few days before his death in an automobile accident at Indianapolis Colonel F. W. Galbraith Jr., commander of the American Legion, dictated a statement calling the attention of the public to the fact that to-day would be Flag Day, when the people throughout the country will, as he worded it, "pledge again their love for their flag and their firm purpose to serve it."

In view of this expression of their late commander Legionnaires representing more than 10,000 posts in this country and abroad have arranged to induce the communities where they are located to show proper deference to the Stars and Stripes on this day.

The Legion has been pushing a campaign to place the flag on every public building throughout the country. Colonel Galbraith's message on the anniversary of the flag comes with peculiar force because of the sudden end of his career soon after he prepared it.

"Flags are like people. They are full of personality, endowed with characteristics, and they are full of life. These qualities flags borrow from the nations they represent the peoples over whom they wave. If a nation is great and benign, striving to make the golden rule an international as well as an individual tenet, then is the flag of that nation a glorious emblem and a symbol of right and truth. But if the nation is a mean, a jealous and untrustworthy group, then its flag is only a bit of colored cloth."

"Down through the ages men have fashioned banners; have matched beauty with beauty, and have died for them in peace. They have died for their flags. Flags have been the first bright thing to which the child has thrilled with recognition, the last thing taken by the soldier to his grave."

"But is the flag worthy of such reverence? Only, indeed, if those who revere it have a group conscience and a group aspiration to be honorable and just."

"Our flag was born when the nation was an infant. The breeze that first rippled its starry folds brought whisps of troubled events, violence and bloodshed. But our flag lives on, to see the nation live and grow and prosper. Our flag has been carried into many battles, but never on the side of conquest. It has known grave dangers, but never has been sullied by a national shame."

"This flag that ripples in the wind to-day is worthy of our reverence, because we of this nation have striven and always must strive to keep our ideals lofty. To-day we will pledge again our love for our flag and our firm purpose to serve it. Our pledge to-day and acted every day, will keep the Stars and Stripes glorious."

The following events have been arranged in connection with the observance to-day of the 144th anniversary of the birth of the American flag:

Flag Day exercises of Society of Colonial Dames, Van Cortlandt Mansion, 10 a. m.

Award of Americanization certificates to pupils of Public School 4, 173d Street, Third Avenue, 10 a. m.

Flag Day outing for wounded and disabled ex-service men of local hospitals. Men leave St. George ferry, Staten Island, at 1 p. m. and return at 4 p. m. Entertainment by Mrs. S. Rankin. Drew Post of the American Legion en route.

Regular Flag Day celebration of Sons of the Revolution. Parade of patriotic societies from Frazer to City Hall, beginning at 3:30 p. m.

Flag Day exercises by Brooklyn Elks Lodge.

At the Strand it has been necessary to curtail the regular program to make room for D. W. Griffith's "Dream Street," which is the feature this week. There are no talks with it now, but Richard Bold sings a prologue. The cast is the same as when it was the feature at Town Hall, with Carol Dempster, Ralph Graves, Charles Mack, Edward Bell and Tyrone Power playing the principal characters.

For Pueblo Flood Victims

Appeal to National Chamber of Commerce Says Private Relief Is Inadequate

PUEBLO, Colo., June 13 (By The Associated Press).—Appeal to the United States Chamber of Commerce for relief subscriptions for Pueblo was made today by Governor Shoup, James L. Lovren, president of the City Council of Pueblo, G. L. L. Gann, president of the Pueblo Chamber of Commerce, and J. P. Keating, chairman of the Pueblo Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The appeal, which will be presented by W. Frank Persons, vice-president of the American Red Cross at Washington, says that Pueblo's needs are beyond the resources of the community, that subscriptions have been light and that haste is imperative.

"Five hundred thousand dollars is needed urgently as a bare minimum sum to do most necessary relief and rehabilitation work in the city of Pueblo, according to a conservative estimate," the appeal said.

Allocation by the Red Cross of Weeks of $100,000 "or as much thereof as deemed necessary," to be used for Sanitation purposes in Pueblo, was announced in a telegram received today from Washington.

Contributions totaling $35,746.95 were announced by the local chapter of the Red Cross today.

One of the checks received was for $2,000 from Johnstown, Pa., which was destroyed by flood years ago.

Tulsa, Okla., itself recovering from the effects of the race riots of a few weeks ago and menaced by new waters of the Arkansas, forwarded $300.

Park Department Gets

Naval War Buildings

Accepts Structures in Lieu of Restoration Between Ft. Hamilton and Bay Ridge Ave.

The Committee on Finance and Budget of the Board of Estimate received a letter from Park Commissioner John N. Harman, Brooklyn, yesterday, saying that the Navy Department had offered to turn over to the Park Department all structures now on the Shore Road, between Bay Ridge Avenue and Fort Hamilton, which the navy is about to vacate. Commissioner Harman explained this offer was made in lieu of restoration of the park property and because the navy was permitted to use during the war.

Aldermanic President F. H. La Guardia immediately wanted the barracks and sub-structures turned into houses for the summer. Borough President Riegelmann, of Brooklyn, said it would be a good suggestion if the barracks had been built to accommodate families, but to try to establish families in the barracks under the present arrangement would be disgraceful.

The Park Commissioner finally was authorized to accept the offer of the Navy Department, in lieu of restoration of the property.

Political Club Wife's Rival

DENVER, June 13.—Anthony Moore, tax collector for the Borough of Queens, New York City, was too good a husband to suit his wife, Olga Moore, who, Monday, told Judge Butler her husband supported the Rockwood Republican Club of Brooklyn better than he did her.

In a letter to Judge Butler, she told him that she had given money to the club, the witness said. "If a member was delinquent in his dues my husband paid them. When I complained about it, my husband said: 'I told me to get out and work for it.' Mrs. Moore said she tried three or four different jobs, but found she could not work and keep house at the same time. So she quit and came to Colorado. She was granted a preliminary decree.
